Anthony Livanios
CEO
U.S. Energy Stream
United States & Germany

Anthony Livanios is an energy economist. In 2010 he founded US Energy Stream with a mission to deliver cutting edge energy intelligence and to create innovative ways for oil and gas leaders to connect. He developed one of the most influential oil and gas networks in Europe and the United States, now with four offices on both sides of the Atlantic (London, Houston, Washington, Frankfurt). He has over twenty-five years of experience in working alongside, oil majors, oil independents, and national oil companies, on intergovernmental agreements, pipeline negotiations, LNG projects, geopolitical risk assessments, and market intelligence. He promotes industry thought leadership ensuring industry development by facilitating and brokering CEO business relationships across the United States and Europe. Proven track record in delivering shareholder return. He has in-depth knowledge and understanding of the American oil industry, shale gas and LNG markets, and the geopolitics of Eurasian oil and gas. One of the industry's most networked entrepreneurs.

He was Managing Director for LNG Trading at M&M Gas S.A. of the Motor Oil group, (2010-2011), President of Poseidon S.A., Offshore Natural Gas Pipeline (2009 – 2010) achieving the agreement for the construction of the Greek-Bulgarian Natural Gas Pipeline (IGB). From 2004 to 2009 he was the CEO and founder of Alpha Metrics S.A., a company specializing on market intelligence, geopolitical risk analysis, and exclusive energy and business conferences. In 1994 to 2004 he established American Research Inc., specializing in political risk analysis, public opinion research, and business to government relations.

Anthony Livanios holds a Master's Degree in International Political Economy from Columbia University, New York, N.Y. (1991), and a B.A. in Economics from the American University, Washington, D.C. (1988). He is fluent in English, German, and Greek. He did his military service as a Navy SEAL (1992-1994).